SPECIAL TO THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

Europe.

VIENNA, Jan. 25.—Archduke Albrecht, in command of the Austrian army, has been ordered to take the field.

MADRID, Jan. 25.—Fifty thousand American breech loading rifles have been ordered.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Burke publishes a letter denying any knowledge of the Clerkenwell explosion. He received no intimation of any such purpose.

EDINBURGH, Jan. 20.—A very heavy gale passed over the Southern counties of Scotland yesterday. Houses were unroofed and blown down, and much damage done. Several lives were lost.

DUBLIN, Jan. 27.—A gun shop in this city was entered last night by a party of Fenians, who carried off half the powder it contained. The police made twelve arrests.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Trial of Sir Colom (?) for bigamy was concluded today, proving his marriage in London, while the wife whom he married in New York was living. The Judge decided the New York marriage valid, and sentenced him to eighteen months' imprisonment at hard labor.

The Martello tower near Wexford, Ireland, was attacked last night by Fenians. The garrison fired upon the assailants, who fled after returning the fire.

The Fenian Shaw has turned Queen's evidence, and positively identified Barral as the man who fired the fuse at Clerkenwell.

Despatches announce the Abyssinia expedition again in motion. Gen. Napier will immediately put himself at the head of a column, and push on to the capital of Tiger district.

New York, Jan. 29.—Steamer dates are received from Europe.

The Times describes the distress at the East end of London as heartrending. 40,000 persons are in receipt of out door relief.

Unfavorable tidings were received from Paris regarding the state of trade. Manufacturers are paralyzed by a variety of causes. Hunger and destitution are making sad havoc among operatives in Mantez, Rouen and Bordeaux. In Paris, also, the distress is very great, but private and public benevolence is more active there than in other cities.

United States.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The Republican's special says the Senate Pacific Railroad Committee has authorized Howard to prepare a bill for the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and he will probably be ready to report within the next ten days.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—In the House the reconstruction bill passed.

Mr Seward says he does not expect this Congress to pay for Alaska this year, but next will.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—17 or 18 of the largest business building in the city, each five stories above ground, have been destroyed by fire. Total loss probably not much short of $4,000,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—It is expected that Alabama will be fully restored and recognized as in the Union within three weeks. Georgia and North Carolina will follow suit.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Edward Thornton, the new British Minister, has arrived and will be presented to-morrow.

There is no longer any doubt that the Sandwich Islands treaty will be ratified.

In the Senate Harlan introduced a bill to grant lands in aid of the construction of railroads and telegraph lines from the Union Pacific Road through Montana and Idaho to Puget Sound. Referred.

California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—The U. S. war steamer Resaca, 8 days from Sitka, has arrived.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—Gold closed this morning in New York at 141; Sterling exchange, 100 to 110 1/2.

Legal Tenders, moderate demand at 71 to 72.

Wheat firm at $2 65 to 2 75.

Barley, $1 65 to 1 75.

Oats, $1 75 to 1 85. No quotation of flour.

Second Dispatch.

Eastern States.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The total loss by the great fire on Tuesday night was $2,759,000; about half insured.

Europe.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Geo. Francis Train is delivering lectures in Cork on the rights of American Irish subjects. He has crowded houses. The editor of the Dublin Nation has been arrested and held for trial for the publication of seditious articles.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE.)

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The bill reorganizing the army passed the Senate after a sharp debate.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The policy recently adopted by Prussia on the Roman question, in which there is an arrangement with France in the treatment of subjects, caused some surprise. It was agreeably adopted for the purpose of conciliating the Catholic subjects and strengthening the influence of Prussia over South Germany.

Milner Gibson, a leading member of Parliament, in a recent speech declared that peace must be preserved between England and America. The future Cabinets of both countries will not be pledged to the policy of either Stanley or Seward.

Additional particulars are received of the affair at Martello Tower, near Duncannon. Quite a vigorous attack was made. The men shot were carried off by their companions. The affair caused great excitement in Wexford county.

The internal condition of Italy is becoming critical. Fears are entertained that a coup d'etat is contemplated.

FLORENCE, Jan. 29.—It is believed in Paris that the relations between France and Italy are not as cordial as they have been.

Our Alaska Letter.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

SITKA, ALASKA TERRITORY,
January 23d 1868.

In your travels through the world, did you ever find anything more agreeable than to meet, at the time you least expected, an old, true and dear friend. On last Saturday, January 18th, like all the Americans in Sitka, I felt very jubilant, and, to use a common expression, I don't believe there were more than three persons in the town who were mean enough to go to bed sober. Why? Because the long-looked-for Fideliter had arrived. She had on board a splendid lot of fellows, a large mail and lots of papers. We can now go in and discuss the affairs of the nation, with as much logic and apparent honesty as most any other number of people you could find anywhere. We will vote for progression. We like to see the nation prosper. We swear by Gen. J. C. Davis and vote the Democratic ticket. Can you wonder at it? The Fideliter brought on the U. S. Paymaster, Col. H. B. Reece. He paid the troops off, and money is now quite plentiful. The greenbacks we take and pass at 70 cts on the dollar. The Fideliter made the trip from Victoria to Sitka in seven days. Hon. Ben Truman, the U. S. postal agent, was a passenger on the Fideliter, and as he has had ample opportunities to see the necessity of at least a monthly mail, it is hoped that he will bring to bear all the influence he can to secure us a regular service. If the owner of the Fideliter, Mr. Kohl, would get any reasonable compensation for bringing a mail, there is no man in America who would be more willing to carry it than he. He is now somewhat identified with the country and, I am told, will do what he can to forward the interests of Alaska. Mr. J. H. Kinkaid, the newly appointed Suttler, came back on the Fideliter, with a large stock of goods to open a store here. He has rented a very fine building from Mr. C. B. Montague, and expects to open it in a few days. Mr. Kinkaid is a gentleman who makes friends wherever he goes, and will do well here. To leave out the name of Mr. Thomas Stratton, another of the passengers who arrived by the Fideliter, would be making a big blank. I regret exceedingly we could find nothing here to induce him to remain with us.

On the morning of January 22d, the schooner Growler, under the command of Capt. Coffin, left for Victoria. The weather here for the past six weeks has been very fine.

The Fideliter sails in half an hour from now for Victoria, so I must close. The Russian brig, under command of Capt. Book, leaves to-day with all the Russian soldiers, for the Amoor River.

BARNEY O'RAGAN.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Allow me through the medium of your valuable journal to communicate with my fellow shareholders in the Queen Charlotte Coal Mining Co., Limited.

GENTLEMEN:—Some information and advice in the present position of our affairs may not be out of place. Publicity is feared by some as an exposure of mismanagement, and by others under the idea that the value of our venture will be lessened by it. With regard to the last there is this consolation: we cannot stand lower in the estimation of the public than we do. Those that take the trouble to think about us know quite as much about our clunders as we do ourselves, and have a clearer judgment in the matter. As for going over, I don't doubt whether we could give a share away that had a twenty cent assessment due on it. I know I can't get half a dollar a share for mine, all calls paid up. I tried to borrow money on them a few days ago but could not get a cent; and this after an expenditure of years of time and thousands of dollars.

We are now well advanced in our fourth year of prospecting for coal, and are still prospecting for a payable seam, not having made any sensible advance in our enterprise. I ask any shareholder he will tell me we have a valuable mine and a market ready to take any quantity at highly remunerative prices—the Government have put us in possession of a magnificent property, expecting it would be a public benefit, and there is no real difficulty in carrying out the works necessary to bring the coal into the market. Why, then, are we placed in the wretched position we are now in. Solely from admitting incompetent persons to the management of our affairs. The four long years, the thousands of dollars expended, will be sheer waste unless it has the effect of instructing our Directors, in fact educating them in the duties of their position. We must consider they are being educated at our expense—and very expensive it is too. To assist in their education reasonable inquiries should be made as to how and why our money is expended in waste, as the proper working of our property does not require it. By inquiries and insisting on intelligible replies you will cause your Directors to think, and in thinking they may probably arrive at some knowledge of what they are doing or going to do. Had you done so a year ago the last tunnel failure would never have occurred. I hope it is the last of the series. The 'going it blind' system ought to be put a stop to. They were shown that to drive the tunnel would be a waste of money—that a much better plan could be gone into. There was a person willing to contract to deliver at the Company's stores, ready for loading into vessels,

5,000 tons of Coal, value when there $50,000
To open the mine, $2,500
To put up screens and shoots 3,000
Railway, 3 ft 8 in. gauge, 15,000
Ballasted or planked, 2,000
Wagons, 2,000
Leaving mine in proper working order for a minimum of 50 tons per day, 2,000

Contingencies, 24,000
49,000

Total payment to the Contractor, $79,400
50,000

Bonus to the Company, $29,400

The work to be commenced by driving directly into the coal, so that the first stroke of the pick would be the getting of coal.

This was accompanied by a statement showing that the 5,000 tons of coal might be got out in six months. The Contractor was willing to bind himself to do it within nine months.

The amount that the Company would be required to furnish in six months was $12,500, to be paid under supervision by the Directors, to secure its being used for the contract and for no other purpose. This money would have been on account thus:

The lumber and iron for Railroad $5,000
Cash for wages, provisions, materials, &c., 7,500
$12,500

As the contractor offered to get out 1,000 tons of coal before he could make any demand on the Company, and as that coal would have been a property on which money could be raised, there would have been no necessity for drawing on the pockets of the shareholders. Had the Directors accepted the above offer the position of the Company would have been this: The coal mine would have been opened without any risk or expense to the Co.; the railway, screens, shoots, wagons, &c., complete and made a present of to the Co.; the value of $30,000. The 5,000 tons of coal would have been worth $50,000 and would have produced the money to pay the Contractor, and only in the event of its being got out.

This offer was made by a man who had been engaged on public works, either as contractor or engineer for upwards of thirty years in England and in Australia, and fifteen years of that time had been at work in a coal country, and who understood perfectly well what he undertook to do—whether the offer was good, bad, or indifferent the Directors did not take the trouble to inquire. After it was presented in writing to the Board, they turned red, white, and blue as it knocked all their pretty schemes on the head, and individually began to sneer at it. One said that, however beneficial the offer might be to the Company he should oppose it. Valuable Director that, of course. The Company must be proud of him. The Board have never made any inquiry on the subject from that day to this. They went to work to raise in a very irregular manner $7,500 in depreciated shares, and threw it

A Colored Delegate Visits Grant.

WASHINGTON, December 24th, 1867.
General Grant had a novel sort of an applicant for admittance to his presence this morning. About half past ten o'clock a respectable looking sable citizen made his appearance and asked to have an interview with the General of the Armies. He was told that he must send in his name, whereupon the colored citizen sat down and indited a letter to General Grant, in which he explained that he was a representative of his African brethren of the South, and came on their part to discover Grant's views on the topics of the day, and more especially regarding the right of the negro. The letter was taken to General Grant, who sent back an answer that he was a military officer and did not desire any conversation on political topics. The colored delegate, however, refused to be subdued in this way, and entered into an argument with General Grant on the subject. He told Grant he wanted merely to take back with him some comforting assurance that Grant was the friend of the negroes and that he deserved their support. Grant informed him that when Senator Wade called on Grant the conversation was devoted mainly to horses and not to politics. The colored citizen said he did not want to talk horse—that he took no interest in that subject, but in others of more use to general humanity and great political rights. Grant, however, was almost as reticent on these matters as Grant himself, and so the African delegate, after repeated efforts at pumping, retired disappointed.

CONTRACT FOR ALL YOUR WORK.—Employ men who know their work—avoid tunnelling out of coal—drift and sink in the coal till you are certain—don't leave the coal till the coal leaves you—prove well before you put in your railroad, &c., and then perhaps your present mismanagement, continually extravagant may

Like a bungler, blundering o'er a doubt
Till blundering long, at last they blunder out—and find coal to pay chances has favored us very much or we must have burst up long ago. Recollect the $50,000 expended and the years gone are utterly and irretrievably wasted. No management can recover that. The waste has been willful.
